

Una redacción de opinión

En una redacción no expresamos las opiniones de los demás, solo las nuestras propias.

¡Recuerda!

1 Estructura

- Divide el artículo en párrafos.
- En el párrafo 1 introduce el tema del artículo y da tu opinión.
- En el párrafo 2 (y 3) escribe por qué te gusta el tema del artículo.
- En el último párrafo escribe una breve conclusión. Esta conclusión es normalmente un resumen de lo que has dicho hasta el momento.

2 Contenido

- Da ejemplos y habla de acontecimientos que no te resulten complicados de narrar.
- Utiliza adverbios de tiempo y conectores para enlazar párrafos y oraciones.
- No hables ni de ventajas ni de desventajas.

Vocabulario de utilidad

Dar opiniones: In my opinion... I think that... I feel very strongly that... It is clear that... I (completely) agree/disagree with...

Enlazar: Because... However... Also... Therefore... Although...

Adverbios de tiempo: Firstly... Secondly... Finally...

Dar razones: My main reason is... Another reason is...

Conclusión: To conclude... To finish... I think it is clear that...

Pregunta modelo

'It is better to travel around your own country instead of going abroad on holiday.' Do you agree?

'Es mejor viajar por tu país que ir de vacaciones al extranjero.' ¿Estás de acuerdo con esta afirmación?

Respuesta modelo

I think that it is wonderful to travel to different countries and therefore I completely disagree with the idea that it is better to stay in your own country.

I feel very strongly that we should visit as many countries as possible. If we visit another country we can learn a lot. We can learn about the culture, we can meet the people and we can find out about different ways of life. We can eat new food, listen to a variety of music and learn about customs. We can also practise a foreign language.

Another reason for visiting other countries is that it is good for relations between countries. When we know about people's customs and culture we can understand the people better. If people travel more to other countries perhaps there will be less fighting in the world.

I think it is clear that going abroad on holiday can only be good for us and although I love my own country I would like to visit as many different countries as I can.

dar la opinión

enlazar

dar la opinión

enlazar

dar razones

dar la opinión

dar la opinión

enlazar